

FLIGHT FOR ALLYSHIP

To provide more awareness and representation, Left Bank Brasserie will be partnering with Diversity in Food and Beverage to highlight under-represented winemakers. 15% of all proceeds from the sale of these wines will provide scholarships and grants to create a more diverse and inclusive food and beverage industry. This month, we are highlighting Hispanic winemakers.

ULLOA CELLARS, GRÜNER VELTLINER, EDNA VALLEY 2020

Founded in 2019, Ulloa Cellars is the creation of Nancy Ulloa, former LB Steak alumna (we're very proud). She moved to Paso Robles in 2017 to explore her desire to learn how to make wine, but breathed into existence so much more! Through her thirst for knowledge, hard work, and mentorship, Nancy has not only manifested a fabulous wine, but has developed a true sense of community and a tribe of followers. While "Baby Grüner" may have been her first vintage in 2019, she has already released three new wines and is bound to grow more!

CEJA VINEYARDS, PINOT NOIR, CARNEROS 2019

Ceja Vineyards is a Mexican-American family-owned winery founded by Amelia, Pedro, Armando, and Martha Ceja producing premium estate grown wines from the Napa and Sonoma Valleys. In one generation the Ceja family has gone from immigrant vineyard workers to grape growers and winery owners. The family now farms 113 acres of planted vineyards in Napa and Sonoma counties. Multiple varietals are produced including Pinot Noir, Chardonnay, and Sauvignon Blanc.

BODEGA DE EDGAR, "CAN'T STOP," GRENACHE, DENNER VINEYARD, PASO ROBLES 2020

Edgar Torres' wine journey started as a waiter in Paso Robles where he was exposed to many great wine producers. Several became friends and eventually opened their doors to his learning desires. Edgar started as a cellar rat, and moved on to learn the many different aspects of the industry. His enthusiasm for producing great wines brought him to the development of his own brand, Bodega de Edgar, in 2007. Starting at just 250 cases, Bodega de Edgar is now approaching 3,500 cases with the 2018 vintage.
